Operating on the Kerb

Another instance of the careless handling of a motor car was given in Stony the other evening, when Touring No. 3665 bumped into Sedan No. 32981, which was standing at the kerb with passengers aboard. The driver of the touring, in his anxiety to get to his supper, following the ringing of the 6 o'clock town bell, backed with some force into the left fender of the sedan, making quite an impression. The sedan, a new Chandler Six, is owned by Mr Peter Baumberger of Garden Valley, and the owner is negotiating with the driver of No. 3665 for a settlement of the damage.

Two-dollar Wheat

"Two dollar wheat is a reasonable prospect, judging from information I have received from those in close touch with the situation," said Mr R J Hutchings, of Calgary, to an interviewer on Friday. He pointed out that no one could say positively which way the market trend would be, as there were many factors that had to be taken into account.

The Weeds Campaign

Previous to this year all owners or occupants of land were responsible for the destruction of weeds on roads opposite their property. The Noxious Weeds Act now requires a municipal council to have the weeds on roads destroyed.

Persons noticing noxious weeds on a road will report same to his Councillor, and these will be destroyed at the M.D.'s expense. If the Councillor is not known, notify Mr Bert Whitney, Leduc, weed supervisor for this district, giving location of weeds.

Mr Whitney hopes that all farmers will do their part towards cleaning up their land this year without legal proceedings. Your weed inspector has been furnished with the names of those who have been notified in previous years to clean up their land, and has instructions to inspect these places. If it is found there is no improvement, necessary action will be taken to clean up the farms.

For information regarding the destruction of noxious weeds apply to your weed inspector.

The Right Community Spirit

Every once in a while in the strenuous, and more or less selfish days of this modern, highly organized period of the world's history, some little incident of downright unselfishness, of the practical application of the Golden Rule, comes to light which does all good you hear of it, and revives our belief in the innate goodness of the majority of our fellow men, a belief which is frequently in danger of being utterly destroyed when we read of so much deceit, dishonesty, cruelty and crime.

Such an incident, causing a warm glow in our hearts, occurred in the Carleton Place, of Saskatchewan, a few weeks ago. When Stanley Dugan and his eldest son, Garfield, died within three months of each other, leaving Mrs. Dugan and eight small children, the neighbors decided to help put in the crop. Therefore, on a given day, eighteen tractors gathered at the Dugan farm and plowed 160 acres in seven hours. The following day other neighbors harrowed and seeded the field. Neighbor women provided the "eats" for the "bees." While the "bees" was organized and managed by the Carleton Place I.O.O.F. No. 20, it was carried out as a community enterprise and is typical of the community spirit which prevails in the Carleton Place.

It was this same spirit that animated the early pioneers in Eastern Canada who joined forces in conquering the virgin forests, built roads, schools, churches, grist mills, and in one "bee" after another assisted each in turn to build houses and barns. And when this "last great west" was opened to settlement, the same spirit prevailed, neighbor assisting neighbor through their difficulties, and in times of sickness and disaster. Only so was the settlement of Canada made possible, and the foundations laid for the successes of today.

It was the cultivation and practice of this neighborly community spirit of self-sacrifice and co-operation which established for the West its reputation of open-handed friendliness and generosity. But as population increases, cities and towns grow up, modern means of communication expand, the vacant spaces fill up, and a more highly organized and mechanical development takes place, there is danger of this fine old feeling of neighborliness disappearing. It would be a pity if this should happen, and it is vastly encouraging to learn of such a happening as that at Carleton Place.

And if we are losing something in actual practice of the community spirit in our larger centres of population, it is gratifying to know that it still prevails in the hearts of Western men and women. It is as strong as ever in the more remote and pioneer districts of the West, finding expression in the building of small community hospitals and Red Cross Outposts, in community clubs and halls, home-makers' clubs, and numerous co-operative efforts for the welfare of all, regardless of race, language, creed, or worldly possessions.

Helpful as the neighborly assistance extended by the people of Carleton Place undoubtedly was to the bereaved Widow Dugan and her children, alleviating her sorrow and removing worry from her mind, we venture to say that those who participated in extending that assistance found a glow of satisfaction, a joy, in rendering this service far greater than any realized by them from any successful venture undertaken in their own behalf.

Furthermore, the neighborly spirit and co-operation thus displayed, and the uniting of forces in the performance of a splendidly unselfish effort, cannot fail to leave its impress upon the whole community. It must inevitably make easier the settlement of those little disagreements and differences of opinion which arise in all communities regarding school, church, municipal, and other local affairs. It means that not Widow Dugan alone, but the whole community has benefited, because the right kind of a community spirit burns more brightly than before.

Find Canadian Wood Useful

London Firms Using Mill Waste For Making Linoleum

That shavings and other planing mill waste are being used experimentally in the manufacture of linoleum, in place of "wood flour," which is at present imported from the continent, was revealed in the annual report of the Department Of Scientific Industrial Research, issued at London, England. The report deals in particular with the development of the empire's timber resources. One London firm sought a suitable wood to make boot lasts. The department experimented and finally recommended that Canadian or home-grown birch would serve the purpose.

A Golf Triumph

First Amateur To Make Par On Famous Jasper Golf Course

For the first time in its history, an amateur has played the famous Jasper Park Lodge Golf Course in par. The triumph belongs to B. Women Control Wealth

About 41 Per Cent. Of Individual Wealth Of U.S. Held By Fair Sex

Approximately 41 per cent. of the individual wealth of the United States is controlled by women, so a recent bank survey shows. Should this proportion increase at the present rate, financial patriarchy would be established by the year 2025. Women are receiving 70 per cent. of the estates left by men and 64 per cent. of the estates left by women. In addition they are the beneficiaries of 80 per cent. of the $95,000,000,000 worth of life insurance policies in force in this country. According to income tax reports the majority of incomes over $100,000 are in female hands, while over 41 per cent. of the entire income tax is paid by women. As a result of their financial ascendancy women comprise an actual majority of stockholders in the largest corporations in America, and constitute from 85 to 40 per cent. of investment house customers.

A TIRED OUT FEELING

Is a Sure Sign That The Blood Is Thin and Watery

"I am glad to have an opportunity testifying to the benefits derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," writes Mrs. Lawrence Kennedy, St. Joseph, N.B. She further says: "Some years ago I was working as a stenographer, and became badly run-down. I always had a tired-out feeling, had no appetite and suffered terribly from backache. Almost every month I had to remain from the office for a day or two. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I have reason to be glad that I followed this advice. Before I had been taking the pills very long I began to feel much better. Continued use of my strength came back, I regained my appetite and the terrible backache from which I had suffered disappeared. I have been married some years now and have two fine healthy children, a girl and a boy, and am in the best of health. All this I owe to Dr. Williams' famous Pink Pills, and I trust that these few lines may help some other weak, run-down person. All weak, run-down people who will give this blood-building tonic a fair trial will find through its use new health and strength. You can get the pills from any dealer in medicine, or mail order at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Many British Premiers Came From Scotland

Ramsay MacDonald Makes Fifth In List Thirty Years

The Scotch appear to have a strong hold on the British premiership. J. Ramsay MacDonald is the fifth prime minister from Scotland in thirty years. The others were Lord Rosebery, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Earl Balfour, and Bonar Law.

During the same period, the Welsh have had one premier, David Lloyd George, and the English two, Lord Salisbury and Stanley Baldwin.

LONG SLEEP MAKES

BABY HAPPY AGAIN

"Our baby kept waking up several times a night, until we started giving him a little Castoria after his last nursing," says an Iowa mother. "He slept soundly from the first night and it made him look and feel worlds better." Baby specialists endorse Fletcher's Castoria; and millions of mothers know how this purely-vegetable, harmless preparation helps babies and children, with colic, constipation, colds, diarrhoea, etc. The Fletcher signature is always on the wrapper of genuine Castoria. Avoid imitations.

"Von" Is Not Title

Prohibition of the use of titles in the post-war republic of Czechoslovakia does not apply to the word "Von," an approximate social equivalent to the English "Sir." The constitutional supreme court ruled in the case of Ferdinand Zdenko Von Lokowitz, the Czechoslovak minister of interior, that the "Von" was part of a name and not a title.

Beautifying the Grounds Surrounding Rural Schools By Planting Trees and Hedges

At the beginning, of this century when in the face of much indifference and no little opposition the Department of the Interior through its Forest Service, began the distribution of free trees to farmers in Western Canada, the chief objects were to make the prairie farmsteads more homelike and comfortable and the farms themselves more productive. In the nearly thirty years that have elapsed since then, because of a realization of the widespread benefits of prairie tree planting, apathy and opposition have given place to enthusiasm and support of this policy. The annual distribution has grown from a meagre 50,000 trees in the first year to approximately 8,000 seedlings and cuttings at the present time. Reports show that a large percentage of the new shelter-belts set out are successful and travellers are constantly noting the change in the appearance of large sections of the prairies through the planting of these trees.

The Department distributes forest trees exclusively and, as has been frequently noted in recent years, the effect has been to encourage the development of orcharding and the growing of small fruits and tender vegetables which formerly, it was thought, would not grow in the Middle West. Another very pleasing change which has followed the general adoption of the plan of tree planting on farms has been the improvement in the grounds and surroundings of rural schools on the prairies. Naturally the improvement of school grounds is a much more difficult matter than that of planting groves around farm homes. The chief difficulty, of course, is the constant changing of teachers and of rural school trustees. Added to this is the fact that school vacation occurs at the very time when in the first three years after planting, the trees require attention in order to ensure their subsequent growth.

In spite of these handicaps a great deal has been accomplished. In the province of Saskatchewan there are approximately 4,800 rural schools and of these 1,098 have applied for and received trees from the Forest Nursery Stations at Indian Head and Sutherland. While the proportion of plantations which have become permanently established, on school grounds is not so high as in the case of those on farms, the results on the whole are decidedly encouraging.

The average prairie school with its bare surroundings is anything but inspiring and it is not difficult to realize the effect such conditions must have on the impressionable minds of the young children who necessarily spend so much of their time there. If every rural school could be surrounded by an attractive setting of trees, shrubs, and flowers the ultimate value to the community and the country as a whole would be inestimable.

That the handicaps under which the average school labours in respect to the improvement of the surroundings can be overcome is evident from the record of those that have been successful. In some cases the success has been outstanding and in such it is generally evident that the community as a whole has taken special pride and interest in the school, that there is close co-operation between the trustees, the teacher, and the neighboring farmers, and that all are interested in seeing that the trees receive the necessary attention. In such localities the school grounds become a community centre and are used for picnics and other gatherings thus proving a valuable asset in the general development of the district.

Indian Lands Sold

Prices averaging $20 per acre were paid for the lands comprising the Indian Reserves adjoining the towns of Berwyn and Fairview, in Alberta, disposed of recently by the Department of Indian Affairs. The highest price recorded was $40 per acre paid by a Saskatchewan buyer for three quarter sections in the Beaver Reserve near Fairview.

Tuberculosis Free Area

Some Delay In Creating Disease Free Area In Manitoba

There has been a delay in starting on the new tuberculosis free area in Manitoba as a result of a technical difficulty which has arisen. The present area centres around Carman and it is now proposed to extend it north to Lake Manitoba, taking in a strip of territory about 50 miles in width and embracing the Portage Plains farming district.

The farmers in the area to be included in the disease free territory have sent the necessary petition to the Provincial Government asking that this be done, but the federal regulations apparently require that a formal request for the creation of a disease free area be sent to Ottawa by the Provincial Minister of Agriculture. This has not been done in the present case. The Federal Department of Agriculture has received an informal request for the creation of a disease free area by the Provincial Minister of Agriculture. This has not been done in the present case. The Federal Department of Agriculture has received an informal request for the creation of a disease free area by the Provincial Minister of Agriculture. This has not been done in the present case.

Until it does the Federal Department cannot begin the work of cleaning up new territory. In the meantime, therefore, the inspectors have been sent to central Saskatchewan where a new disease free area is being created in the Last Mountain district.

A High Flag Pole

British Columbia's Tallest Spar For Toronto Exhibition

Carrying on her deck, what is said to be the tallest spar of Douglas fir shipped out of British Columbia, the Canadian National Steamship, "The Canadian Ranger," reached Montreal, recently from Vancouver, via Panama. This spar is 186 feet in length, measures 38 inches at the butt and is ten inches at the top. It weighs 25,000 pounds, and contains 5,000 feet board measurement. It was cut by the Timberland Lumber Company and forwarded as a gift to the Canadian National Exhibition, at Toronto.

Royal York Hotel "Hello" Girls

If a telephone call to the Royal York Hotel brings the response that the line is busy, you can take it for granted that not one but eighty trunk lines are in use. There are 1,800 individual telephones handled by three private exchanges and the twenty-seven young ladies in the photograph operate the main switchboard. They were tested for voice and general disposition and selected out of hundreds of applicants. PRINCE'S TROPHY

The only trophy presented by His Royal Highness on the continent of America, the Prince of Wales Cup, will be the prize offered to golfers who compete at the Banff Springs Course, September third to sixth next. Competitors will mainly be drawn from among those taking part in the unique golfers' tour of Canada, sponsored by the "Canadian Golfer," which starts out from Toronto, August 12, and goes to Victoria and return. On the outward trip the tour will stop over at Winnipeg, Jasper and Vancouver, and the return journey will be by the Canadian Pacific scenic route through the Rockies via Revelstoke and Field, motoring to Lake Louise and Banff, and resuming the train trip through Regina, Winnipeg and Fort William, arriving at Toronto September 11.

Heavier Production Of Flour

Grain Absorbed To End Of April Shows Big Increase

The improvement in the production of flour and other cereals by the milling industry of the Dominion this year reflects itself in heavier purchase on the part of the industry of wheat and coarse grains. To the end of April, being the first nine months of the grain year, the producers had absorbed a total of 72,521,270 bushels of wheat, or nearly 6,000,000 bushels more than a year ago. Grinding of oats involved 8,838,173 bushels, or about the same volume as last year.

Early Vegetables Shipped

Ten car lots of early vegetables moved out of Vernon, B.C., on July 3rd, chiefly potatoes, beets, carrots and cabbages. Royal Anne cherries are going on in large quantities to Missions and to the Pacific coast canneries south of the line. The quality of the fruit this year is excellent.

Luxury In Travel Attains The Apex Of Achievement In These Modern Days

This is an age of more luxury in everything. Nearly every manufacturer plans to beat his competitors by producing an article that is better than that of his rivals, better to look at, easier to handle, more convenient and comfortable, something that panders to the sense of luxury.

In no way has this been more manifest in recent years than in the realm of transport. Automobiles, trains, ships, even airplanes are all designed nowadays to cater to the desire for luxurious travel.

One hundred years ago railway passengers rode in open wagons, sitting on bare planks. Twenty years ago those who could afford automobiles at all had to be content with open bodies. A closed body was only for the millionaire buyer.

There are no open wagons for railway passengers today; not even for cattle.

We are somewhat proud of our rolling stock on this continent. The latest Pullman cars are wonderfully fine and comfortable, yet over in the Old Land they believe, and with some truth, that they are years ahead of us in the matter of comfortable travel on the trains.

A Britisher gets a great laugh out of our sleeping cars. He gasps in surprise when he takes his first night ride over here and finds that he has to tumble in, or climb in, to a sort of bunk, inserting himself into a ledge or a shelf, as it were, and undress and dress by a feat of contortionism on the bed. "Fifty years behind the times," he mutters to himself as he adjusts himself to the accommodation.

"Over home," he walks to the sleeping car, opens the door of his cabin, has plenty of room to move around and take off his clothes, hangs them up in a cupboard; he can wash his basin with running water, turn into a real bed, and in the morning he may ring the bell for the attendant to bring him a cup of tea, or even breakfast in bed.

The latest dining cars on British trains remove all suggestion of being on a train at all. They are made to resemble a dining room in a hotel as near as possible. One company has organized a contest for the best designs and decorations or cars that will eliminate the train environment.

Between Paris and London there is the most luxurious train in the world. It is called the "Golden Arrow," and although the English Channel intervenes, the train is practically the same. If anything, the train on the French side of the water is the more comfortable because the coaches are wider.

The interiors are just as luxurious as the rooms in a swagging hotel. No need to go to any dining car, either. The waiters bring your dinner to your seat and set it on a folding table. Linking the two trains is a correspondingly luxurious "Golden Arrow" steamer—and you know how luxurious steamers can be.

Our own C.P.R., in keeping with the best traditions of the Cunard and White Star liners, have ships between Montreal and Liverpool and other ports on the other side, which have swimming pools, gymnasiums, nurseries, and ball rooms. The staterooms are similar to the prettiest rooms in a stately home, with curtained windows instead of port-holes. The dining rooms might be the main dining room of the Royal York Hotel.

Passenger airplanes have Chesterfield chairs, a bar and dining-car service. Only twenty years ago the aerial passengers sat in an open cockpit and hung on for dear life to the struts. Another transition from the open plane to the Pullman type. And now, the old stage coach has given way to the super bus. Huge buses now career along the highways of the United States and England with upper and lower decks, big, roomy chairs, berths for sleeping in, a smoking room, dining room and ice water always on tap.

With all these things, travel has surely reached the apex of its achievement. The age demands these things and is willing to pay the shot. When we cast our minds back, and think of our forefathers who slept on the decks of an old wind-jammer with a tarpaulin over them, in the course of two to three months crossing the Atlantic; of how they heaved the first roads out of the virgin forests and took weeks to transport their families and their belongings a matter of a few hundred miles to establish their homes, we ought to have increased respect for their memories and cultivate a more contented spirit among ourselves.

Holds Coveted Position

Mr. Zayx Is Last In New York Phone Book

Mr. Zayx is a man who interests us. Mr. Zayx is not a character in an expressionist play or an obscure Victorian novel by an imitator of Dickens. Mr. Zayx is simply the man who is last in the New York phone book. After Zayx there is only finis. Being a newcomer to the directory this year, Mr. Zayx has drawn some attention to himself, for he has all at once supplanted Mr. Zayn and Mr. Zey. He went the latter one better—"one z" better—and the former was nowhere in, lastness beside him. Just what awards and decorations attach to being last in a phone book has never been made clear. But there must be some advantage. One man changed his name from Zayk to Zayx in an effort to clinch the place. How vain, indeed, are human wishes. For along came Mr. Zayx to rule Mr. Zayk's (or Zayx's) ambition.

The Need Of The Hour

Appears To Be Better Driver Than Better Cars

Good automobile driving is essentially a matter of good manners. They are one and inseparable, suggesting that "distinction without a difference."

If more good manners among motorists would make good drivers, and that would be inevitable, users of the highways and streets would dare nothing more than a great rebirth of civility and strict adherence to the rules of etiquette.

Is not the need of the hour better drivers rather than better motor cars? — Montreal Herald.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

AUGUST 4

BELSHAZZAR'S FEAST

Golden Text: "Be not drunken with wine, wherein is riot."—Ephesians 5, 18.

Lesson: Daniel 5:1-31.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 1.

Explanations and Comments

Belshazzar's Feast, verses 1-4.—Belshazzar invited a thousand of his lords to a great feast, at which they drank wine from the gold and silver vessels which his father Nebuchadnezzar had taken from the temple in Jerusalem. And as they drank they praised the gods of gold and of silver, of brass, of iron, of wood, and of stone.

Quick the king spoke, while his proud glance burned. Quickly the servant went and returned.

He bore on his head the vessels of gold

Of Jehovah's temple the plunder

With daring hand, in his frenzy grim.

The king seized a beaker and filled to the brim.

And drained to the dregs the sacred

And loathing he cried, as he drunk it up.

"Jehovah, eternal scorn, I own

To Thee, I am monarch of Babylon."

Thus the German poet Heine pictures the scene. Even to a pagan mind such a use of sacred vessels was sacrilege. It was a bold defiance of the Most High God.

The Writing On the Palace Wall

Which the Wise Men Felt To Interpret, verses 5-6.—While they were thus reveling, they saw the fingers of a man's hand write upon the wall.

Belshazzar trembled and called for the enchanters and soothsayers to interpret the writing, but they could neither read nor interpret it.

On the Queen's Advice, Daniel Is Brought Before the King, verses 17-18.—The queen entered the banquet hall and tried to calm the king by telling him that there was a man in his kingdom whom Nebuchadnezzar his father had made master of all the wise men, and he could interpret the dream. So Daniel was sent for.

The king told Daniel that he had heard of him, and his wisdom, and if he would read and interpret the writing, he should be clothed with purple (the royal attire), have a chariot, and about his neck and be clothed third ruler in the kingdom.

The Interpretation Of The Writing, verses 19-28.—This is the writing: Tekel, Upharsin, that is, "Number, that was inscribed: 'Mene, Mene, ed, Numbered, Weighed, and Divisions,' as the words given literally in the margin of our Bible.

"We too, shall be weighed in the balances and found what? If we put our lives into God's hands now, we need have no fear of passing into His hands then. We have our temptations, but they are not greater than those of Belshazzar. We have our endowment and our opportunities and they may be even greater than his because of the age in which we live. But this is certain: we have what Belshazzar had not—the example and teaching of Jesus Christ—and the grace that never fails those who avail themselves of help divine." — J. W. G. Ward.

New Wonders
Of the Air

Amazing Development Shown In Planes Now Under Construction

With aeroplanes that travel at a speed of over three hundred and fifty miles an hour, that giant air ships that house restaurants and ball-rooms, few of us dare probe into the future of aviation. Every day sees some great new wonder of the air, and here are a few that we may expect in the course of the next few months.

A colossal flying hotel, with even more room and comfort than the Graf Zeppelin, is being built in Germany. With accommodation for eighty passengers, the aeroplane will weigh fifty tons and will be four times larger than any machine yet constructed.

Work has been already commenced on a huge air liner which is to carry fifty passengers. Some idea of the size of the new machine is obtained when it is learned that the passengers will travel in the wings, which are to be eight feet thick.

A seaplane measuring one hundred feet from wing-tip to wing-tip has already passed its flying trials in America. With accommodation for thirty-two passengers, it has been built to compete against the huge new European flying boat.

Interesting Exhibit By Experimental Farms

Several New Features Seen On Western Farm Circuit

Several new features were seen in the exhibit from the Dominion Experimental Farm on the Western Farm circuit.

The animal husbandry section consists of a central device which points out the relation between high milk production per cow, and low milk production per 100 lb. on the other. This information is accentuated by photographing of dairy cows with legends calling attention to the fact that the high producing and low producing cows can only be determined by the yield of milk scales and Babcock test. On the tables are shown types of suitable milk scales and also a Babcock test outfit with instructions for use, milk recording sheets and case, etc.—In fact, everything necessary to conduct the testing of a herd of cows for milk and fat production.

The botanical section of the exhibit illustrates, by means of rusted plant material and otherwise, the life cycle of the stem rust organism. It shows the types of injury caused to the living plant, and the effects of the rust on the grain. Another phase of the exhibit is a demonstration of the methods used in controlling stem rust. This shows the effectiveness of sulphur dusting as a measure for the prevention of rust, and likewise the results which are being achieved by the plant breeders in developing rust resistant varieties of wheat and oats.

It Testifies For Itself.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil needs no testimonial of its powers other than itself. Whoever tries it for coughs or colds, for cuts or contusions, for sprains or burns, for pains in the limbs or body, will know that medicine proves itself and needs no guarantees. This shows why this Oil is in general use.

CRUISER BUILDING PROGRAM OF U.S. TO BE CANCELLED

Washington.—In a formal statement, President Hoover announced that the construction of the cruisers included in this year's naval building program would not be begun until there has been an opportunity for consideration of their effect upon the final agreement for naval parity which, he said, he expected would be reached between Great Britain and the United States.

The President declared he had read with "real satisfaction" the statement of Premier MacDonald made in the House of Commons. Mr. Hoover declared the American people were "greatly complimented" by Premier MacDonald's proposed visit and that he would find a universal welcome in the United States.

"Mr. MacDonald, the president said, 'has introduced the principle of parity which we now have adopted and its consummation means that Great Britain and the United States henceforth are not to compete in armament as potential opponents but to co-operate as friends in the reduction of it.'"

Asserting that he could not but be responsive to the principles enunciated by MacDonald, Mr. Hoover declared the United States joins the British premier in his efforts toward disarmament in the same spirit.

Mr. MacDonald has indicated the good-will and positive intention of the British Government by suspension of construction of certain positions of this year's British program. "It is the desire of the United Mr. Hoover said, States to show equal good-will in our approach to the problem."

"We have three cruisers in this year's construction which have been undertaken in the government navy yards, the detailed drawings for which are now in course of preparation."

"Actual keels would, in the ordinary course, be laid down some time this fall. Generally speaking, the British cruiser strength considerably exceeds American strength at the present time and the actual construction of these three cruisers would not be likely in themselves to produce inequality in the final result."

"We do not wish, however, to have any misunderstanding of our actions and therefore we shall not lay these keels until there has been an opportunity for full consideration of their effect upon the final agreement for parity which we expect to reach, although our hopes of relief from construction lie more largely in the latter years of the program under the law of 1923."

Need Great Empire Policy

Otherwise Great Britain Will Sink To a Second Class Power, Says Conservative Candidate

London, England.—Unless a great Empire policy is adopted, Great Britain will sink to the position of a second class power, said Sir John Ferguson, Conservative candidate in the by-election in Twickenham, in a statement to his supporters at Hounslow explaining his Empire free trade policy.

Conservative headquarters declined to support Sir John because his Empire trade policy is inconsistent with the general party program and their action has given rise to a lively debate within the Conservative party.

Hoyt Returns To New York

Plane Only Slightly Damaged In Making Forced Landing

Winnipeg.—After successfully breaking the record flying time from New York to Nome, Alaska, Captain Ross G. Hoyt, of the United States army, who was forced down by fuel trouble recently, on his return journey, at Valemount, British Columbia, about 40 miles from Jasper National Park, passed through Winnipeg over Canadian National Railways, on his way to New York.

Flying by way of Minneapolis, Edmonton, White Horse, Yukon, Fairbanks, Alaska, and thence on to Nome, Hoyt made the flight, a distance of 4,200 miles, in 32 hours' actual flying time. It was on the return journey, near Valemount, when he first noticed the trouble, and not having sufficient altitude to make the closest landing ground at Henry House flats, near Jasper, he was forced to land in a little valley, which damaged his plane. The plane, although only slightly damaged, was beyond Valemount's facilities for repairs, and the plane was loaded on a freight car for shipment to New York.

"My disappointment in not being able to fly home," said Capt. Hoyt, "was offset by the wonderful kindness and the many courtesies which the Canadian National Railways extended to me."

Steamers En Route To Hudson's Bay

To Carry Out Government Plans For Northern Development

Ottawa.—Canada's annual advance on the north is now in full swing. Four steamers are hurrying north in connection with the government's plans for the development of that great territory. Three of them are bound for Hudson Straits, and Hudson Bay, to provide aids to navigation the port of Churchill is opened. The fourth, the steamship "Beothic," is on her annual cruise to the Canadian Arctic archipelago, where the various outposts will be visited.

The department of marines has sent the steamer "Arramoor" to Hudson Straits accompanied by the steamship "Sambro" to construct a direction-finding station on Resolution Island. The steamship "Acadia" is on her way to Churchill with a hydrographic party to survey the approaches of that port.

Many of the island's residents spent the night under the open sky.

No Extra Harvesters Needed For West

Sufficient Help In Canada Says Minister Of Immigration

Winnipeg.—With a light grain crop in Western Canada this year, the Canadian Government has decided to extend no call to Great Britain for the unemployed there to come to the Dominion and help in the harvesting, declared Hon. Robert Focks, Canadian minister of immigration, who was in Winnipeg recently. He stressed the fact that there is sufficient help in Canada to successfully harvest this year's crop.

"I have been through the west," he declared, "and I found crops rather light. This means that we will not need as many harvesters this year as last. There are sufficient men in Canada to harvest this year's crop."

Canada's Population

Total Population Placed At 9,796,000

As At June 1st, 1929

Ottawa.—Canada's total population stood at 9,796,000 as of June 1, 1929, according to an estimate issued recently by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This is an increase of approximately 38,000 persons over the same date last year, when the estimated population was 9,658,000.

The report, covering the years 1921-29 inclusive, further showed that the Dominion's population had increased by more than 1,000,000 persons during that period. In 1921, the census recorded 8,758,483 persons.

Save for Prince Edward Island and the Yukon, all provinces enjoyed population increases during the last year.

Carried Patriotism Too Far

Winnipeg.—A. Kristjansson, a visitor from the United States, was fined $25 and costs in police court on a charge of being disorderly in a public place. He complained noisily in a local theatre when the audience failed to applaud the American flag when a news reel parade picture was flashed on the screen.

British Naval Reduction

Will Suspend Work On Cruiser and Submarine Construction

London, England.—In an intensely dramatic atmosphere, Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald revealed to the House of Commons the policy of the Labor Government in the matter of naval reduction. He declared that his ministry was prepared to walk hand in hand with the government of the United States to avoid competitive armament and finally, after a final agreement had been reached, it was planned to summon the nations of the world into conference on the subject of general paring down of armed forces and materials by land and sea.

Premier MacDonald first told of his conversations with the United States ambassador, General Charles G. Dawes, who was himself seated in the distinguished strangers' gallery along with other diplomats.

The government's purpose, he said, was to make the Kellogg anti-war pact an effective influence in international relations.

For the present the government proposed:

1.—to suspend all work on the cruisers Surrey and Northumberland, now under construction.

2.—to cancel the building of the submarine depot ship, Maidstone.

3.—to cancel the building of two submarines already contracted for.

4.—to slow down dockyard work at other naval stations.

With regard to the 1929-1930 building program, the premier said in any case no further commitments would have been entered into before the autumn, but that no steps at all would be taken to proceed with it until the whole matter had received further consideration.

Premier MacDonald intimated October looked a likely month for his proposed visit to Washington for a conference with President Hoover for the purpose of advancing the objects of disarmament and world peace.

Rust Resisting Wheat

Results From Experiments Are Being Confidently Expected

Ottawa.—The experiments looking towards a variety of wheat which will be "real wheat" and at the same time have complete rust-resisting qualities are being continued, said Dr. J. H. Grisdale, deputy minister of agriculture, here recently, and results are being confidently hoped for.

While there are a number of rust-resisting varieties, certain difficulties have stood in the way of their development generally. At present those varieties are being experimented with in conjunction with the higher grades so that the results might produce a top grade of Canadian wheat to which the rust-resisting properties may adhere.

New President Elected

Native Of Winnipeg Honored By British Medical Association

Manchester, Eng.—Dr. Harvey Smith, a native of Winnipeg, was formally elected president of the British Medical Association. The association will meet in Winnipeg next year, and Dr. Smith remarked the invitation to visit Winnipeg had first been extended when the association met in Montreal 33 years ago. "It seems a long time to wait, but ultimately the great reward comes to us," he said.

CHINESE ANXIOUS TO AVERT WAR WITH RUSSIA

London, Eng.—Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, told the House of Commons that he had reason to hope that the danger of war would be averted in the Russo-Chinese situation.

He said he had received from the Chinese charge d'affaires assurance from the Chinese Government that it was anxious for a pacific solution, that it would take no aggressive action and that it was ready for a round table conference with Soviet representatives.

The assurance added, said Mr. Henderson, that if Soviet Russia should resort to forcible measures the Chinese government would appeal to the League of Nations under articles of the Covenant.

Suggestions were made in London that the Chinese nationalist government has asked the Japanese government to intervene in its controversy with Soviet Russia to avert actual hostilities between them.

The visit of the Chinese minister, Mr. Wang upon Baron Suishara, Japanese foreign minister at Tokyo, was believed to have offered the opportunity for such a request. There was some speculation as to whether the Chinese authorities in the reported arrest of 300 other Russian employees of the Chinese Eastern had not further complicated the situation which had begun to appear much less tense than formerly.

It was believed in any event that the Japanese action, which Reuters said it had learned authoritatively had been taken, in closing the Manchurian southern railroad to troop movements, would deter militants among the Chinese who would thus find their way into northern Manchuria greatly hampered.

Attention still was centred here upon attempts of the United States to intervene. General belief was that the invoking of the Kellogg anti-war pact would be successful in averting hostilities.

London, England.—The British Government has no intention of increasing the number of British battalions in China in the near future. Answering questions in the House of Commons, Right Hon. Thomas Shaw, secretary for war, gave this assurance. The minister declined to say whether he considered the present British forces in China adequate or too large.

At present there are six British battalions and one battalion of Indian troops stationed in China, the minister said.

Another carload of Jersey heifer calves, 36 in number, has been shipped from Lennoxville to New Brunswick for distribution to Chas. Han and St. Stephen. This makes a total of five cars—162 head of high class Jerseys brought into New Brunswick during the last two months from Quebec.

A fast twenty-foot quarter mile race track built up and surfaced like a good tennis court will be ready for the 40th annual Dominion track and field championships to be held at Banff September 2 to 21. The infield has been specially prepared and resown and the grand stand enlarged to accommodate four hundred people. The meet in the fall will be the first time the Dominion championships have been held in Alberta since 1922. The Highland Gathering and Scotland's Musical Festival held over 'yest' at Banff, will precede and coincide with the championship meet.

Fourteen hundred Bibles bound in linen with red edges, placed at the front of the stage in the sacred concert room of the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, was the sight that greeted a congregation of over 2,000 people who crowded the big hall of the hotel at a Bible dedication service recently held there. They were for placement in every room of the hotel by the Gideon Association, whose Canadian president, C. W. Stewart, and International president, Samuel Fulton, of Milwaukee, were both present at the function.

A reduction of fifteen per cent. in the average planting of seed potatoes in New Brunswick this year as compared with 1928 is noted in the official crop report issued recently by the Soils and Crops Division, New Brunswick Department of Agriculture.

Calgary building records went over the million dollar mark for the month of June when 216 permits were issued for a total value of $1,066,965. In June, 1928, permits issued numbered 136 to a value of $688,205.

Record crowds attended the Brandon Exhibition held early in July, and, according to official statements, receipts at the main gate were fifty per cent. greater than last year, while those at the grand stand were 30 per cent. greater. The livestock entry was the best ever shown, according to many of the old-time visitors.

Visiting Prince Edward Island for the first time, E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, will include Charlottetown in his tour of inspection of the Maritime Provinces scheduled for the middle of July.

A hotel with a stone's throw of the recently opened $15,000,000 Royal York Hotel in Toronto, which housed nothing but hoboes, has been discovered by the Toronto police and nearly thirty "guests" were charged with vagrancy later in the courts receiving sentences from six months down. The hotel, which was on the European plan, the inmates providing their own meals, was fixed up in an old house on the waterfront with cook-house, beds, fire places, stoves, thirty pounds of coffee and everything but a telephone and a bath.

SYNOPSIS
Marcus, the famous Broadway producer, takes a party of four to Blackie Joe's New York night club. Al Stone, Blackie's chief comedian and singing waiter, is desperately in love with Molly, the ballad singer, and begs her to read a song he has written for her. After scornfully refusing and telling him she will never marry a waiter she goes to the Marcus table and tries to ingratiate herself with the great producer. Blackie seeing Al dejected, urges him to sing the song himself — to Molly. Al says he can't sing a love ballad, but finally he consents. Grace, the cigarette girl, who is deeply and unselfishly in love with Al, encourages him.

CHAPTER VI.

The room was filled with careless chatter as Al took his place beside the pianist, at the edge of the dance floor, to sing the heart song he had written to Molly. No one in the gay crowd seemed to notice him; no one except himself, Blackie Joe and Grace knew that the next few moments meant to him success or failure with the girl he loved. He was plainly nervous at trying a ballad; his face went white and one hand gripped the side of the piano.

The pianist struck the opening bars and Al began the verse, haltingly but determinedly. He had located the one face he wanted to keep before his eyes throughout the song—Molly's. But Molly was busy talking to Marcus; she didn't even know Al was singing.

As he continued the people at the tables nearest him stopped talking and gave him their attention. Then

Bowels So Active
Feared For His Life

Mrs. S. J. Jago, Canobie, N.B. writes: "My little boy, when three years old, had a severe attack of diarrhoea. The bowels were so active, and he vomited so much, I feared for his life. I tried many medicines, but he was always getting worse. A friend told me of and after the second dose I saw an improvement. I gave him almost half a bottle and he was completely relieved. I have used it for the other children, and my husband and myself. It gives it great praise; and when he goes away from home to work he always takes a bottle with him."

it seemed as if he caught the merry-makers a little farther away and they, too, became silent. He was singing as he had never sung before, throwing his whole soul into the words.

When he finished the verse and swung into the chorus the pianist whispered up at him, "Good boy, Al!" And as the pianist ran his fingers swiftly up and down the ivories he marvelled at this singing waiter who had been a comedian up until this moment and now suddenly unleashed a voice vibrating with sentimental appeal.

Al relaxed when he reached the chorus. It was the chorus that would put him over or reveal him as a failure to Molly, but he felt it so deeply that he seemed to sing it without effort. Every person in the audience was blocked out from his vision except Molly—her vivacious face stood out alone in a sea of darkness. Yet he could not help but see that she was still talking to Marcus. She, among all the listeners in that big room, seemed to be heedless of his presence.

But as she whispered to Marcus a strange thing happened. The astute revue producer heard the song and, although he hadn't paid much attention to it at first, now he suddenly became all interest. His hand came up in a quick gesture, demanding silence, from her. He whispered curtly:

"Sh-h! I want to hear this."

It was the first time that evening he had flattered the floor show by the least bit of attention, so Molly was astonished. She followed his gaze, fixed on Al, and she, too, began to listen. At first she saw a glance of amusement Al's way—what did that comic waiter mean by trying a ballad? Then, after a moment, Molly also realized that Al was putting some new quality into the song. It was as if he had discarded the ordinary technique of ballad singing, and was creating his own method, the supremely natural method, as he went along. At times his voice dropped to a low, pleading "floor; again he talked the words with all the fire at his command; and now his voice suddenly rose to a startling and passionate crescendo of appeal.

Molly was not stupid; she realized that the singing waiter she had scorned so recently was really creating a living song. Like the call of fate his loud, resonant voice repeated the title—"Always"—which occurred so frequently in the ballad. She stole a look at Marcus; he was leaning forward, giving Al his rapt attention.

As Al felt Molly's eyes on him the floodgates of his soul opened and, to all intents and purposes, he was alone with her, adoring her, telling her of his love that would last—always. He thought the song was going home—it seemed to him her eyes grew gentle.

But the person most deeply affected was Grace, the cigarette girl. She stood, quietly leaning against the wall at the back of the room and, in the semi-darkness, no one saw the tears come to her eyes and trickle, unheeded, down her pretty cheeks. Oh, what wouldn't she have given to have Al sing that song, in that way, to her! Everything she possessed, her life itself!

Now for the first time she related with what passionate devotion she loved him. Her lovely young bosom rose and fell rapidly and in her heart was a consistent stinging ache that seemed to grow more intense with every word Al uttered. Dear little Grace, so loyal and so lovely, yet forced to stand aside unnoticed and see another woman, who didn't appreciate Al Stone, receive the homage that he tossed so eloquently at her feet. It was maddening to Grace but—there was nothing to be done about it except go on loving him and endure the pain in her heart.

Now she saw Blackie Joe approaching. She hurriedly tried to dry her tears. Blackie saw and understood her feeling at first glance but, like the good, understanding fellow he was, pretended not to notice. "Poor kid," he thought. "Well, . . . that's the way it goes." Then he turned to Grace and whispered confidentially:

"Our comic's not so bad after all, is he?"

Grace looked up and forced herself to smile happily.

"He's wonderful!"

Finally the last notes of the music died away—the song was ended. Al stood for a moment as if in a trance, then quickly turned and walked toward the dressing rooms. The room was as silent as a desert night, not a crackle of applause broke the stillness. Al's chin came down on his chest; he felt he had failed and he wanted to get out of the room as quickly as possible.

At the Marcus table Molly's eyes were fixed on his retreating figure. She was obviously affected, a faint stir that she didn't understand had risen in her heart. At any rate, she knew what Al meant now.

The reaction of Marcus to the song was decidedly different. He saw it as a piece of work a medium for thrilling audiences. Turning to Molly he almost shouted: "That's—a song! One of the best ballads I've heard!"

In a flash Molly realized that Al had a real hit, a heart-throb number that might put him over on Broadway and make him famous. Her eyes became intensely brilliant; she was thinking fast.

As Al approached the dressing room doorway he encountered Grace and Blackie. Swiftly he spoke:

"You see, it's no use—I knew I couldn't put over a ballad. For a moment it seemed I had Molly interested, but I couldn't hold her. And not a peep from the crowd."

But Al stopped, dazed. From the crowd came the slow rise of applause. They had been too closely held by the song to give vent to their emotions as he walked rapidly away, but now their feelings were released in a storm of appreciation. He had reached every one of them and their stentorian hand-clapping rode toward him like a great wave. He had never given him such a reception before.

As he swung about, facing them, his dejected look passed, and a smile crossed his features. Then he saw Molly's face turned toward him, while Marcus rose, leading the thunderous applause.

At Marcus's table Molly heard the celebrated producer say:

"That waiter's a singing fool—he's great! And who wrote that song? I want it for my revue."

Not for a moment did Molly doubt now. Al's future was assured, with the great Marcus determined to have his song. She began to lay her plans swiftly.

"The waiter wrote it," she answered. "The boy who just sang."

"The waiter wrote it?" repeated Marcus, amazed.

"Yes, but—" Molly smiled coolly—"I gave him the idea."

Tracing Sea Currents
British Meteorological Office Securing Data By Drift Of Bottles
After having floated 2,500 miles in 143 days at sea, a bottle was recently picked up at North Queensland. It had been dropped overboard on October 7, 1927, by a British vessel while in a most desolate part of the Pacific Ocean, 1,000 miles north of the Fiji Islands. In it was a message asking that it be returned to the Meteorological office of the British air ministry, which is having 494 ships sailing the seven seas drop similar bottles every day in a plan of securing data to be used in tracking sea currents.

Adopting Western Ideas

Chinese Youth Have Good Times But Still Respect Parents
Although they may not say "Whoopie!" in China, the modern Chinese youth makes it, and they call it "Whoopie." The younger generation in South China, are reaching for and adopting Western ideas," said G. P. Hamsworth, general agent of the Canadian National at Hong Kong, who passed through Winnipeg on his way to Hong Kong after spending a holiday in Europe and England.

"At the better entertainment places," continued Mr. Hamsworth, "you see the modern Chinese flapper with short skirts, bobbed hair and silk stockings, while the boys wear double-breasted suits and wide pants. They dance fox trots to our music, and have adopted English foods and eat it the way we eat it. The young people are also very fond of movies and Hong Kong and Shanghai have excellent theatres.

In spite of this change to Western ideas, it is very noticeable that the respect and admiration which the Chinese youth holds for his parents and older people is not disappearing."

The Moose.

Standing on the edge of a snow-covered precipice with its magnificent head lifted upward, stood a moose. The setting sun dyed the snow a light crimson as it painted the western horizon in colors beyond human description. Courage, fortitude, agility and a love of freedom were portrayed in every line of the moose.

Carefully scenting the air, the animal slowly descended the trail. The crimson shadows swiftly faded away, followed by the dark shadows of the long winter night.

The Loyal Order of Moose is comparable to this creature of bygone days, from whom it derived its name. During the year 1888 a body of intelligent men decided to establish a lodge, the main objective being fraternity and good fellowship. But this objective soon gave way to a nobler and more human one. Due to the ingenuity and foresight of the bold little Welshman James J. Davis, the lodge decided to render the people all the humanitarian service of which it was capable. Two things which have won this Order national recognition and fame were the establishment of Mooseheart and Moosehaven cities. Up to the present the Loyal Order of Moose is protecting, educating and training 1344 children, 150 mothers in Mooseheart city, 200 old and aged fathers and mothers at Orange Park, Florida. There is another service which the Order is giving to the world, that is extension service to 286 families, 1087 children and parents, and 206 old aged and totally disabled persons. These are 3 families in Alberta—Taber, Medicine Hat and Edmonton.

Sir John Daniels, Grand Director of Great Britain, says: "The Moose are destined to play a big part in cementing friendship and good fellowship. The Order is doing the real work the League of Nations set out to accomplish. The League of Nations started at the wrong end. No man can force friendship or anything else down a man's throat, unless one is prepared to receive it. The Moose leads them along man to man, heart to heart. This fraternity will undoubtedly be the means of forming an international brotherhood of man from continent to continent the world over. When the international chain is completed and encircles the globe, you will find that Great Britain will be a great link in the chain."

The Moose are out for the abolition of war.
